“Altitude: Healthcare Mentoring” is an initiative started up by the Ontario Medical Students Association. This program aims to set up mentoring relationships between medical students and first year undergraduate university students interested in a career in health care that come from backgrounds often under-represented in Medicine (first generation students, low socio-economic status, black, aboriginal, etc.).

Students who wish to be considered for Altitude for the 2012-2013 academic year can complete the online applications beginning in January 2012 at <http://altitudementoring.ca/apply-now/> applications.
